Prayer for the Week:

Help me to journey beyond the familiar and into the unknown. Give me the faith to leave old ways and break fresh ground with You. Christ of the mysteries, I trust You to be stronger than each storm within me.

SACRED SPACE - PLACES OF PRAYER IN KERRY DIOCESE:

We now have a new Sacred Space in the Cathedral for the Month of July/August. Since we are unable to travel long distances on pilgrimages at this time due to current restrictions this space invites us to reflect and pray at the local sites in our own Diocese. From these images we see the rich tradition and history of Christianity in the Diocese of Kerry. Over the next few weeks it may be possible for you to visit some of these beautiful and holy places which have been a source of inspiration, prayer and pilgrimage for generations. Special Candles available at the Shrine in the Cathedral along with complimentary leaflets.

Throughout the next few weeks we will take time to reflect on this sacred places and the impact they have had for the people of Kerry Diocese and beyond. This week we reflect on Aghadoe Cathedral and Innisfallen Island.

Aghadoe Cathedral

The area has also been linked with 5th century missionaries; however the first major discovery that Aghadoe was an important site was the discovery of the 7th Century Ogham Stones. According to the Annals of Innisfallen, St. Finian the Leper founded another monastery at Aghadoe around the 6th or 7th century, dating from 939; the monastery is also known as the "Old Abbey". Also present in the vicinity is the 13th century Parkavonear Castle, built by the Normans in 1169 post the Anglo-Norman Invasion. It is believed that the monastery on Innisfallen Island is closely linked with the monastery at Aghadoe; reference is first made to their relationship in the Annals of Innisfallen while also a great scholar of Innisfallen was buried in Aghadoe in 1010 AD. The round tower began construction in 1027; with the 12th century came new rulers, Eóganacht Locha Léin, who constructed a new church in Romanesque style called the 'Great Church'. The church was finally completed by the end of the 12th century with the addition of a chancel; this was later segregated from the rest of the church by a wall.

Innisfallen Island

Innisfallen island can be seen in the distance from Ross Castle out beyond the entrance to the bay. A monastery was founded on Innisfallen in the 7th century and it became a seat of learning and it is said that King Brian Boru studied there. On the island are the remains of the extensive 12th century Augustinian priory and a small 11th -12th century Romanesque church. The annals of Innisfallen, a major source of early Irish history and now stored in the Bodleian Library in Oxford were written there. Boat trips to the island operate from the Ross Castle area from Ross and Reen piers.
