A Tribute to Sr Stan

In quite streets where shadows lie,
She walks - a lantern held up high.
A heart that listens, hands that heal,
A Spirit forged in faith and steel.

She saw the ones the world passed by,
and met their pain with gentle eye.
She built a home where hope could stay,
and love would never go away.

Through storms of doubt,
through nights of need,
She planted light in word and deed.
O Sr Stan, your soul's pure flame
Has carved in hearts a sacred name.

*"We must never become immune to the suffering of others.
Compassion is not a weakness – it is our greatest strength."
by – Sr Stanislaus Kennedy*
