If anyone would come after me, he must deny himself and take up his cross daily and
follow me.
Luke 9:23

Each aspect of this gospel passage is against selfishness in our lives. We must exercise generosity in following Christ, whether in giving up our own desires or in gladly what we have to the more needy.

Reflection

All of us can be healers.

Our lives are continually touching those of other people. With a little sympathy we could heal a wounded heart.

With a little care we could ease a troubled mind,
With a little of our time we could ease the pain of loneliness for someone.

From time to time each of us should stop and ask ourselves: 'What goes out from me through my words, my deeds, my relationships – hurting or healing?'

Healing is not a task only for the individual.

If we can create communities where people can get together, work together and support each other, then healing becomes a part of everyday life.
