Reflection

No one gets to the top alone.
 Behind every success story is a web of unseen hands. People who opened doors, offered advice and believed in you when you didn't believe in yourself.
 It's tempting to romanticise the lone hero. The idea that grit and discipline are enough. Truth is: every success is a mosaic of invisible contributions.
 A teacher who planted the first seed of possibility. A friend who made an introduction that changed everything. A stranger who gave you a chance when they didn't have to.
 We are shaped by the communities we're part of opportunities we're given and generosity of others. And when you understand that gratitude replaces arrogance, humility replaces entitlements and self-made transforms into community-made.
