Irish Bishops: 'War is not the answer. No political leader has authority to unleash war at will.'

Bishops' statement

Yet again, the people of the Middle East are experiencing an unjust war with the loss of innocent lives. War is utterly destructive. In an era of change and readjustment of geopolitical balances and cultural paradigms, war is not the answer. No political leader has the authority to unleash war at will.

The uncertainty incited by the current situation in the Middle East is destabilising for the world on many fronts – politically, socially and economically. This is a time for international diplomacy to work for peace based on justice.

We are particularly mindful of the Irish citizens who are in the various countries of the region at present, including members of the Irish Defence Forces on peacekeeping duties. This is a very worrying time for them and for their families. We assure them all of our prayers during these days.

We pray too for those innocent lives lost, and for all those people and families who carry injuries and trauma.

We join with Pope Leo XIV in calling on all parties involved to ‘assume the moral responsibility of halting the spiral of violence before it becomes an unbridgeable chasm’ (Angelus, 1 March 2026).

Spring Cleaning of Church – We kindly ask for volunteer to come forward to give the Churches a Spring Cleaning. Would you chat with Kathleen Connelly (Brosna) or Noreen Walsh (Knockaclarig) after mass and let her know if you have time to commit over the coming week. We are hoping to have the Churches refreshed and spruced in time for Easter. Thank you for your generous support.
