Vocations: On this the Fourth Sunday of Easter, often called Good Shepherd Sunday, we are reminded of Christ’s gentle and faithful care for His people. Today also marks the Day of Prayer for Vocations a special time to reflect on the call God places on each life.as a parish community, we pray in a particular way for vocations to the priesthood, religious life, and committed lay service. May those whom the Lord is calling have the courage to listen and respond generously. Let us consider how each of us is called to serve in our daily lives – within our families, work places, and parish. Every vocation is rooted in love and guided by the voice of the Good Shepherd. We encourage you to keep vocations in your prayers this week and to support and affirm those discerning their path. May our parish be a place where God’s call is heard, nurtured, and joyfully embraced.
