Courage Comes Before Confidence

Most people wait for a moment that doesn't exist – the moment they finally feel confident and ready. But it never comes.

You'll never feel fully prepared for the things that matter most: changing careers, starting a business, chasing a dream, relocating, or leaving what's familiar.

There will always be fear, uncertainty, and reasons to wait. Confidence isn't built by waiting for fear to disappear – it's built by showing up despite it.

Wisdom comes from experience. Mastery comes from consistency. Confidence comes from courage.

And when you move toward what you want, it starts moving toward you too.
