We all rely on one another.

Watching out for one another.

The value of watching out for one another is very evident in today's readings. Ezekiel as a sentry or watchman protecting the people. Paul reminds us that every member was dependent on every other member. Jesus calls on the disciples to watch out for one another. The most loving thing we can do for others is to nurture and deepen our own relationship with the Lord and to give expression to that relationship in our daily lives. Then, we will be truly watching out for one another. ~ Fr Gerard
